INCIDENT Tue 30 Aug

HEADLINE Charging after contract closed

I terminated my contract in August 2010 (which was on a month to month basis because my contract had expired a few months earlier) and tried to port my number to a new service provider. The contract was due to terminate at the end of August. I started the process to port my number in the middle of August but despite the best efforts of My Wife , my self and the new service provider Nashua kept delaying it and did not give me a reason despite all of us asking. There was no money outstanding. Eventually around the 13th of September the porting was done. The Nashua phone was not used during this period so no charges could have been incurred. Nashua wanted to charge me R2256.10 on a +-R800 contract. Their reason was that the number was only ported in September (Due to Nashua delays). I am sure that this was done on purpose to bill me extra. Almost a year later I am being contacted by attorneys (Nu_debt and Brian Blignaut attorneys). Despite me informing the attorneys of the situation by email I have received no feedback from them either, just threatening SMS's. Dealing with Nashua is the worst experience I have had with any company.

Utterly Disgusted: I received the email above and hoped to get a response but I have heard nothing for five weeks. I also sent all the details to the attorneys many months ago but did not receive any response from them. Last week the threatening SMS's started again from Nu_debt and Brian Blignaut attorneys. I guess they all have the same corporate culture. A case of the corporate screwing the consumer again no wonder we need the Consumer Protection Act (Thanks Government).
